

Acceptable Use Policy (AUP)

Acceptable Use

Services may only be used for lawful purposes. Transmission, storage, or displaying any information, data, or other material in violation of any United States, State of North Carolina, or relevant local law (to us) is strictly prohibited. Furthermore, your use of this service must be in full compliance of any laws which you are also subject to. Prohibited use includes, but is not limited to:

- ❖ Pornography or other adult related material
- ❖ Sexually related materials (products, services, banners, etc.)
- ❖ Making available copyrighted materials for which you do not have written permission from the copyright holder
- ❖ Hacking / Cracking related sites or software
- ❖ Sites supporting or related to unsolicited email or spam
- ❖ Phishing / Identity Theft
- ❖ Links to any of the above materials
- ❖ Open relays or proxies
- ❖ Use of Services as a source or relay for any of the above or for hacking or other malicious behavior
- ❖ Use of Services in any manner designed to hide or obscure the source of anything above

Any activity which disrupts or otherwise negatively impacts our Services, servers, or networks is prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to excessive CPU use, excessive use of network capacity, or excessive disk IO.

Sending spam or unsolicited email is prohibited. All addresses used in email must exist and otherwise be legitimate, and you must have a right to use them. All mailing lists must be confirmed opt-in. Sending out any unsolicited email from another source with any kind of reference or other pointer to BlueBeam Hosting LLC provided Services is prohibited.

While expressly disclaiming any responsibility to do so, BlueBeam Hosting LLC reserves the right to monitor or otherwise evaluate any content, materials, or other use of Services.

BlueBeam Hosting LLC also reserves the right, in our sole discretion, to notify and/or forward suspect materials to law enforcement agencies.

Last update: January 3, 2014